

LITERARY STUDIES + SPOKEN LANGUAGE 11 (4 credits)

Description

EFP Literary Studies + Spoken Language 11 is designed for students who are interested in studying First Peoples literature and oral tradition and in strengthening their oral language proficiencies. The course emphasizes oral self-expression and communication in a variety of contexts. Students delve deeply into First Peoples oral and written literature in a range of media to explore various themes, authors, and topics. This provides a foundation for them to think critically and creatively as they continue to explore, extend, and strengthen their own repertoire of oral language expressions. Within a supportive community, students work individually and collaboratively to explore oral and written literature and create powerful, purposeful oral and written compositions. Through the study of literature and the processes of experimenting with, reflecting on, extending, and refining their oral language, students:

- extend their capacity to communicate effectively in a variety of contexts
- deepen their understanding of themselves and the world
- expand their understanding of what it means to be educated Canadian and global citizens

The following are possible areas of study within EFP Literary Studies + Spoken Language 11:

- First Peoples oral tradition – ideas include oratory, local community story, and oral history
- exploring the relationships between First Peoples literature, oral tradition, and personal and cultural identities – ideas include self-representation, connection to family and community, and connection to land and place
- oral language related to First Peoples cultures – ideas include exploring oral histories and creating oral narratives, with consideration of issues such as cultural appropriation and inauthenticity
- performance in relation to First Peoples themes – ideas include creating slam poetry, oratory, poetry recitation, oral storytelling, readers' theatre, rap, drama, song, or multimodal work
- professional applications – ideas include speech preparation/presenting, proposals, interviewing, event facilitation, radio/podcasts/video posts (information items), and voice-overs related to First Peoples themes
- intersections between First Peoples literature, oral language, and social advocacy – ideas include cultural reclamation, youth engagement, inclusion, and environmental sustainability
